ROUTES DU BONHEUR Massachusetts, two treasure islands

South of the Cape Cod Peninsula, the islands of Martha's Vineyard and Nantucket offer you a very unique trip. These two rustic yet exclusive islands are the home of old New England families and distinguished New Yorkers. The worlds of cinema, finance, and politics intersect to create a friendly atmosphere between both islands' docks. And although the old captains and whalers are only a distant memory, the extraordinary atmosphere still remains...

1 EDGARTOWN — 2 NIGHTS

(1 property available)

The Charlotte Inn

Hotel and restaurant in a village. At the heart of Martha’s Vineyard, the former haunt of whale hunters, you’ll find a captain’s house in the traditional British style. Built in 1864, The Charlotte Inn transports you to another time, and you can’t help but be swept away by its romantic atmosphere. The staff is courteous and alert to every detail. There is a new kind of luxury here: no computers or cell phones are allowed except in guest rooms. The suites have been exquisitely decorated with antique lamps and silk or linen fabrics. Between glasses of iced tea on the flower-filled patio, discover the beautiful island and explore its famous lighthouses and beaches, ideal for water sports and sailing.

Weekly closing :

Restaurant: lunch and dinner from Monday to Wednesday (off season).

2 NANTUCKET — 2 NIGHTS

(1 property available)

The Wauwinet

Hotel and restaurant on the seafront. The Wauwinet is a quaint, elegant retreat built in 1860 on the northeastern shore of Nantucket, at the edge of the Great Point Wildlife Sanctuary. It boasts a beautiful private bay and ocean beaches, so guests can choose between the lively Atlantic surf or the calm warmer waters bayside. Spend time just relaxing, whale spotting, going on lobstering excursions or taking surfcasting or cooking lessons. Drive the scenic back roads to Great Point, or tour nearby Siasconset in the hotel's prized 1948 Woody (a vintage Chevy Fleetmaster station wagon). The Wauwinet's restaurant, Topper's, with its expansive bay views, is accessible by land or by sea aboard the Wauwinet Lady.
